

Susan Mac Hugh BIOGRAPHY

After teaching preschool for 10 years in Northern California, Susan became the founding director of Noah's Ark Preschool at St. Timothy's Episcopal Church in Danville, California. In addition to her role as Director, she also served as Curriculum Coordinator and Head Teacher. From 1999 to 2001, Susan served on the Selection Committee for the California Early Childhood Mentor Program at Diablo Valley College in Pleasant Hills, California.

In June of 2001, her husband's employment relocation brought her to the Houston area. In 2002, Susan founded her consulting business, Singing Bag Solutions. Singing Bag Solutions was developed to provide preschools and teachers with additional tools and techniques necessary for creating interactive and stimulating age-appropriate environments for young children. In 2003, Susan became a registered trainer with the Texas Early Care and Education Career Development System.

Susan is passionate about child development issues such as Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD), and is an avid researcher on this topic. Since 2002, she has served as the Support Group Leader for the Kingwood/Humble/Atascocita Chapter of Attention Deficit Disorder Association – Southern Region (ADDA-SR).

Now retired, Susan and Ken live in Kingwood, Texas. When Susan is not sharing her "Singing Bag Solutions" at early childhood conferences and staff in-service workshops, she enjoys golfing and traveling to California and Arizona with Ken to visit their five children and fourteen grandchildren.
